SEATTLE EASTSIDE BRANCH COLLABORATIVE - ON INNOVATION AND SUSTAINABILITY

How can innovation and shifts in values reshape the framework of sustainability? Join us in an exploration of how development can benefit from a balanced perspective, Biophilia and biomimicry - using nature as a design standard.

Speakers include:

Jennifer Barnes, AIA, LEED®AP; Architect & Sustainability Consultant at 55-5 Consulting

Jennifer is a deep green architect and sustainability consultant with over 20 years of project experience. She splits her professional life between her own design and consulting company, 55-5 Consulting, and her work on the Urban Greenprint, a project run through Biomimicry Puget Sound. She is committed to helping regenerative design become the norm and creating opportunities for meaningful connection with our environment. Jennifer is very active in the Northwest green building community, and she is frequently invited to present at regional conferences and workshops. She speaks on various sustainability topics including LEED, biomimicry, and sustainable water treatment. She is also a founding member of Biomimicry Puget Sound, a regional offshoot of the Biomimicry Institute. Jennifer has a BA in Architecture from Princeton University and a Masters of Architecture from the University of Washington.

Eva Otto Owner, Ecobroker, LEED AP; Infiniti Real Estate and Development

Eva Otto is the Owner/Broker at Infiniti Real Estate & Development and provides real estate services in the Seattle area, specializing in the green housing market. Eva is a LEED Accredited Professional and an Ecobroker. She holds a Master's Degree in Environmental Studies from the Evergreen State College. Prior to her work in green real estate Eva spent over ten years working on sustainability issues internationally in Brazil, India, Costa Rica & Japan. Focusing on community and economic development Eva helped prepare a policy agenda for the United Nations World Summit on Sustainable Development. In addition to her passion for real estate, Eva runs a development company that envisions restoring the balance between human communities and the natural world.
